TARPAULIFE

Welcome to the first newsletter of the TARPAULIFE project

In this edition we are pleased to present our website where you can discover the main information about this research, the partners involved, our objectives and the anticipated outcomes. We also show you pictures of our kick-off meeting at the RINA centre (project coordinator) and of our face-to-face consortium meeting held at Giovanardi's facilities. In addition, we would like to announce the launch of our first press release and provide details about the upcoming events where we will be showcasing TARPAULIFE. Let's get started!

Kick-off meeting

On June 4th, we had our kick-off meeting at RINA's and Ziplast premises. During the meeting, we learned about the details of all the work packages and began working with great enthusiasm towards our goal of enhancing sustainability in the textile industry. Our focus is on developing new solutions based on more recyclable and environmentally friendly plastics.

Pitch presentation by Rina in Parma

Michela Mattia, Scouting R&D Opportunities & Operations Consultant at RINA, delivered a pitch presentation on TARPAULIFE and discussed the project using a poster in the workshop, titled “The Future of Advanced Polymers and Composites: Strategies for Improved Sustainability". This event was held in Parma on September 24th.

Press release

As a first step to ensure that the project's scope and results are highly visible to stakeholders and society, we have issued an initial press release. This has been distributed to both general and sector-specific media on an international scale.

Consortium meeting

On 30 October we held our consortium meeting at Giovanardi's premises in Villimpenta (Mantova). During the meeting we reviewed the ongoing tasks. There was also a tour of the Giovanardi facilities. It was a very productive day to catch up on the progress of each of the partners. Click here to see the photos.
